GRAVITAS VENTURES ACQUIRES ADULT INTERFERENCE

Adult Interference will be available on demand September 17th.

CLEVELAND (August 26, 2019) –Gravitas Ventures, a Red Arrow Studios company, has acquired all rights to ADULT INTERFERENCE, starring Ted Welch (The Help, True Blood), George Baron, Mike Vogel (Secret Obsession, The Help), Christine Woods (HBO’s Hello Ladies), Matt Barr (Sleepy Hollow), and Kate Upton (The Other Woman). ADULT INTERFERENCE was directed by Stefanie Black and Jacquie Phillips. The film will be available on demand September 17th.

An actor, Bo Treadwell (Welch), known mostly as a commercial spokesperson, heads to his hometown for a high school reunion. He gets arrested for a DUI and blacklisted from all future prospects. Down on his luck and sentenced to house arrest, he is faced with his past. Bo meets Elliot (Baron), the awkward kid who lives across the street. While bonding over football, these unlikely friends teach each other a little bit about growing up and what it means to be a man.

“We were so inspired by the films and tv shows we grew up on, everything from Goonies to Growing Pains. We wanted to make a film that would make audiences laugh out loud and also shed a tear or two. ADULT INTERFERENCE is our love letter to the films of the 80s and 90s with a modern twist.” said co-directors Phillips and Black.

“Jacquie and Stefanie have made a raucous comedy with a big heart at its core, and we look forward to audiences worldwide going on the journey of Bo and Elliot,” said Tony Piantedosi, Vice President of Acquisitions at Gravitas Ventures.

ADULT INTERFERENCE is produced by Sarena Khan, Jacquie Phillips, Brian Adler, and Sabyn Mayfield and executive produced by Patrick Millsaps, Nancy DeWitt Pickard, Christopher Barkley and Nicholas Buggs. Tony Pantedosi from Gravitas Ventures negotiated the deal with producer, Sabyn Mayfield on behalf of the filmmakers.
